THE GRAIN 100

- The Grain 100 consists of the top multiple facility grain companies and cooperatives in North America according to total corporate grain storage capacity. (Ninety nine multiple facility companies with more than 6.5 million bushels storage are listed in this section.)
- Statistics for individual facilities are listed by state in the Port, River, Terminal and Subterminal section.
- Because country elevator numbers are included, the total number of facilities and the total corporate grain storage capacity figures may not necessarily be the sum of individual facility listings in the Port, River, Terminal and Subterminal section.
- Conversions of tonnes to bushels are approximates.
- Throughout the directory, leased facilities are listed under the company which currently operates the elevator with lessors designated in parentheses.
- Facilities owned by a consortium of more than two are not credited to any individual member.
- Because of their significant grain storage capacity, flour mills are included and are listed as terminals.
- City or company names in parentheses following an individual facility location are for clarification purposes when referring to the Port, River, Terminal and Subterminal section. If the company has more than one facility in a city, the number follows in parentheses.

HUMPHREY
Employees' Belt Manlift

Production goes up when a Humphrey employees' belt manlift goes in. You save man-hours by eliminating stair-climbing time and fatigue. A Humphrey manlift provides simultaneous up and down transportation, eliminates waiting and delays. It costs less to install and maintain than conventional elevators and takes only a fraction of the space.

Important SAFETY FEATURES of the HUMPHREY Employees' Belt Manlift

1. In-track safety stops. They break the electrical circuit, applying the magnetic disc brake to stop the manlift, if a rider fails to dismount at the top landing. Also furnished at bottom of manlift when a pit is required.

2. Overhead safety stop at the top of the manlift breaks the electrical circuit, applying the magnetic disc brake to stop the manlift, when tubular bar is dislodged by a rider.

3. Foot treadle safety stop. Available for mounting at bottom of manlift. It breaks the electrical circuit, applying the magnetic disc brake to stop the manlift, when rider steps on treadle board.

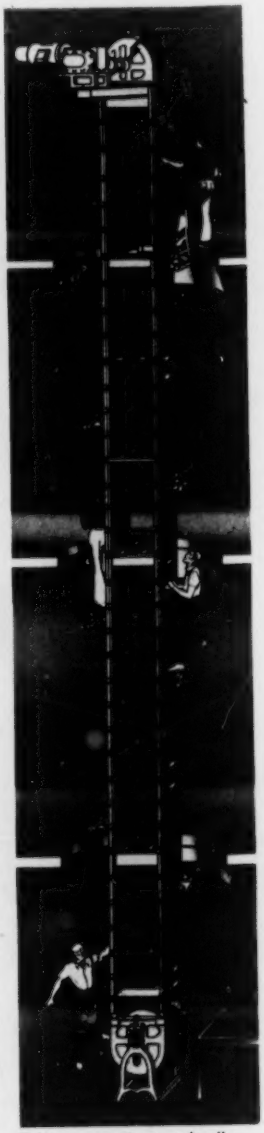
4. Fixed or moveable safety cones for mounting beneath floor openings on the up-travel side. The moveable type is equipped with a switch that breaks the electrical circuit, applying the magnetic disc brake to stop the manlift, if cone is bumped by a rider.

5. Start-stop control rope is always available to riders on both the up and down sides of the belt. Manlift can be stopped by rider at any point by pulling the control rope in the direction of travel.

6. All Humphrey manlift belting is tested and certified for manlift service.

7. Magnetic disc brake, mounted on motor shaft extension, is applied upon loss of power to motor.

8. Centrifugal force-operated "Saf-T-Stop"™ brake or electronically-actuated "Saf-T-Stop"™ brake with safety hold-back are available where required by state or provincial codes. They are always available as extra-cost options.



Drive support, guard rails and gates are not shown for simplicity in depicting the belt manlift.

Straight Truck Unloaders...

Designed and Built to Serve the Grain Industry.

Millions of trucks have been unloaded by Straight Truck Unloaders at grain handling facilities and processing plants throughout the World during the past twenty-six years. Owners and operators praise the speed and dependability of the unloader and truckers are happy because the platform raises and lowers smoothly...there is no jarring of their equipment. These unloader benefits are possible because of our exclusive single cylinder designed with a roller track and cushioning arrangement.

When we introduced our single cylinder truck unloader it was a new concept. Today, with successful installations worldwide, we think this concept best serves the truck unloading requirements of the grain industry.

Ask us for details.

PROFILE OF THE GRAIN 100

The 1990 North American Grain Yearbook lists the top multiple facility grain companies and cooperatives in North America according to total corporate grain storage capacity. To qualify, companies must have more than one facility and more than 6.5 million bus of storage. Companies are listed alphabetically when capacity figures are the same.

The licensed storage capacity of the Grain 100 totals 3,467,248,077 bus, up 3,614,506 bus over last year. Canadian companies and cooperatives accounted for 405,417,186 bus of the listed capacity.

Nineteen companies reported an increase in corporate storage capacity from last year's figures.

The top North American grain companies operated 3,540 grain storage facilities not including unreported country elevators of several major companies. The 1989 total number of facilities was 3,934.

A breakdown of the reported facilities in the Grain 100 shows 58 U.S. ports, 196 rivers, 267 terminals, 243 subterminals and 1,179 U.S. country elevators, 29 Canadian ports, six Canadian terminals, 1,554 Canadian country elevators and 8 storage facilities at processing plants. Statistics for the Grain 100's individual facility locations are included in the Port, River, Terminal and Subtermina. section.

In the Port, River, Terminal and Subterminal elevator section, the total of 914 individual facility listings is 18 more than the number of listings in the previous directory. There are 63 ports, 280 river, 260 subterminals and 311 terminals, 40 Canadian ports, 8 Canadian terminals and 4 floating facilities listed.

Additions to the Grain 100 included: Agmax, Inc., White Cloud Grain Co., Elders Grain Co. Ltd. and Mid-Columbia Producers, Inc.

Other changes noted include:

ADM/Growmark included river facilities at Owensboro, Ky., and Ottawa, Ill. Its river elevator at Joliet was destroyed in an explosion in April 1988.

ADM Grain closed its port elevator at Superior, Wis.

ADM Milling added three rice mills.

Rickel, Inc. added a subterminal at Columbus, Kas.

Scoular Grain Co. added terminals at Sidney, Fremont and Venango, Neb.

Tidewater Grain Co. port at Philadelphia is now known as E & D Grain Marketing Co., Inc.

The largest change in capacity was the result of ConAgra Inc.'s acquisition of the grain division of The Pillsbury Co. The facilities are operated Peavey Grain Co. (ConAgra, Inc.). Pillsbury's total corporate storage capacity dropped from 113 million bus to 20.7 million. Peavey Grain increased from 81.6 million bus to 184,025 million. All but four of the Pillsbury facilities listed in previous editions of the Grain Guide Port, River, Subterminal and Terminal section are now listed as Peavey units. U.S. COMMERCIAL GRAIN STORAGE BY STATE

Off-farm commercial grain storage capacity increased in 1988 by a modest 4,210,000 bus from 1987, marking an end to a three-year building spree during which storage capacity soared by more than 1 billion bus. Indeed, the modest increase — the smallest in nearly 20 years — may signal the end to what could be called the "commercial storage decade," a 10-year period in which 2,629,000,000 bus of storage capacity was added in the United States.

Off-farm storage on Dec. 1, 1988, at 9,614,800,000 bus, compared with 9,610,590,000 bus a year earlier, according to the National Agricultural Service of the Agricultural Statistics Board, U.S. Department of Agriculture. Two years earlier, commercial storage capacity totaled 9,123,280,000 bus, and in January 1986, capacity was 8,287,140,000 bus. For 1986 and earlier, the U.S.D.A.'s figures were as of Jan. 1; i.e. 1985 storage is actually data from Jan. 1, 1985.

Of 42 states in which commercial storage is tracked by U.S.D.A., 25 showed decreases in capacity in 1988 and 17 showed increases.

Commercial storage continued to be dominated by five states — Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Texas and Nebraska — that combined held 52.1% of the nation's storage capacity. At 1,202,400,000 bus, Illinois ranked first, down 2% from a year earlier, but still holding 12.5% of the off-farm storage capacity. Off-farm capacity in Iowa, the second-largest commercial storage state, also fell 2% from 1987, to 1,127,770,000 bus, or 11.7% of the total U.S. off-farm storage capacity.

Kansas ranked third in off-farm storage, at 943,820,000 bus, up 1% from the year before and equaling 9.8% of the U.S. total. Rapidly closing in on Kansas was Texas, which retained its fourth position with storage of 941,730,000 bus, up 5% from 1987 and 9.8% of all U.S. storage. Fifth-largest holder of commercial storage was Nebraska, at 878,880,000 bus, down 850,000 bus from 1987 and equal to 9.1% of the U.S. total.

The largest change was in Texas, where capacity in 1988 increased 43,810,000 bus from the year before. Iowa had the second-largest change in capacity, down 25,900,000 bus, and Illinois was third, down 23,200,000 bus from a year earlier. Fourth greatest change was in North Dakota's storage, up 17,040,000 bus from the year before, and fifth was Ohio, up 15,840,000 bus.

On a percentage basis, the largest changes in off-farm storage capacity from a year earlier were in Florida, up 21%; Maryland, off 18%; New Mexico, off 9%; California, up 8%, and North Dakota, Tennessee and North Carolina, up 7% each.

In the five hard winter states of the Southwest — Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas — commercial storage capacity was 3,171,080,000 bus as of Dec. 1, 1988, up 46,360,000 bus, or 1%, from 3,124,720,000 bus a year earlier. Capacity in the Southwest was 33% of the U.S. total.

Storage off farms in the Central states — Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and Ohio — aggregated 2,411,630,000 bus, down 15,210,000 bus, or 1%, from 2,426,840,000 bus the year before and equaling 25.1% of the U.S. total.

In the four major spring wheat states — Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota — storage capacity was 1,066,720,000 bus, up 15,900,000, or 2%, from 1,050,820,000 the year before. It was 11.1% of the U.S. total.

Commercial grain storage in the Pacific Northwest — Idaho, Oregon and Washington — was 432,700,000 bus on Dec. 1, down 2,600,000 bus, or 1%, from 435,300,000 bus a year earlier. The region accounted for 4.5% of the U.S. total.

The number of off-farm storage facilities Dec. 1 was 13,799, off 90 from a year earlier. States with the largest numbers of off-farm storage facilities were Illinois, 1,295; Kansas, 941; Iowa, 907; Texas, 875, and Minnesota, 803.
